PORT BLAIR AND HAVELOCK

Package Description

PORT BLAIR

Andaman & Nicobar Island is the native of four Negrito tribes (the Great Andamanese, Onge, Jarwa and Sentinalese) and two Mongloid tribes in the Nicobar group (the Nicobarese and Shompens). Among these tribes the Jarwa and the Sentinalese people prefer to go unclothed. The modern history of the Andaman and Nicobar Islands begins with the establishment of a settlement by East India Company in 1789. However, in 1796 this settlement was abandoned. After First World War, this place was famous for a dreaded area because of the association of the "Kala Pani" concept. British Government sends the political prisoners and dreaded criminals from the mainland of India to this island (in cellular jail). This was continued up to Second World War. During the Second World War, the Japanese forces occupied the Andaman and Nicobar Islands in 1942. Further following the surrender of the Japanese forces in the Second World War, the British India Government reoccupied these in 1945 and continued their administration of these islands till the Independence of the country in 1947.
